Retaining Constitutionally Guaranteed Liberty and State Sovereignty

Rejecting the Common Core State Standards

The Pending Rejection states are so marked as a result of serious discussion or action taken towards withdrawing from the Common Core State Standards, withdrawing from PARCC or SBAC, delaying implementation of standards or assessments, or not funding the implementation. The discussions or actions considered include public forums, legislative bills, and hearings on state legislative floors in or since 2012. The Rejected CCSS states are so marked as a result of never having officially adopted the standards or by governor's executive order or legislation repealing or withdrawing from the adoption and implementation of the standards.

Reasons for Rejecting the Common Core State Standards

- One size fits all approach for unique students
- Developmentally inappropriate for young children
- Children used as guinea pigs for unproven, untested standards
- Intrusive data mining and tracking via assessments
- Assessment not valid or reliable
- Taxpayers on hook for additional costs
- Parents & school boards no longer in driver's seat
- No vote or voice of the people
- Contrary to state sovereignty and the U.S. Constitution
- Created, owned, and copyrighted by private special interest groups
- Five Validation Committee members did not sign off
